

Abstract of Disclosure

[0034] An instruction method for editorial service providers, such as, for example, ghostwriters, traditional ghostwriters, content editors, line editors, "book doctors," copy editors or proofreaders wherein the student learns to obtain and complete an editorial task for a third party. The method broadly comprises a plurality of steps, each of which builds on the previous step and is required for the following step, and the sum of which prepares the student for the occupation of professional book writer, a newly coined, trademark-pending designation